

World Ear Project: Series 2, March 25, 1985, 2 of 2

Image not found or type unknown

Identifier

WEP.1985.03.25.c1.B

Description

This program is the second in a new series of ambient field recordings from around the world. The original World Ear Project series was broadcast on KPFA in the early 1970s, as the portable cassette recorder first made such an ambitious undertaking economically affordable. In this, the second series, the idea of collecting sounds from unique and unusual environments from all over the world remains the same, however the advances in field recording technologies, including digital recording, make for a much higher quality experience. In this program Charles Amirkhanian, Susan Stone, and Richard Friedman provide a number of walk through recordings of such locations as a camel market in Tunisia, Harbin Hot Springs in Northern California, Darwin, Australia, and other exotic locals that have been provided by KPFA listeners and friends from around the world.

Musical Selections

[thunderstorm] -- [body building gym] / Martha Dodge -- [morning near Darwin, Australia] / Moniek Darge -- [chainsaw] / Randy Magnus -- [carousel ride at Tilden Park, Berkeley, California, 3/16/1985] / Richard Friedman -- [powered hack saw] / Randy Magnus -- [walk through the UCLA Medical Center, July 1982] / Mike Shell -- Ear of Dionysus [Chants inside a quarry near Syracuse, Sicily] / Lou John Sante (sp?)

Artists

Friedman, Richard (features)
Stone, Susan, 1952- (features)
Amirkhanian, Charles (features)
Dodge, Martha (features)
Darge, Moniek (features)
Magnus, Randy (features)
Shell, Mike (features)